Trigger Warnings: Manipulation, Sexual Harassment, Psychological Abuse, Suicide

Any Discord messages from "1bu" or "re" is Java/Luca. He has changed his Discord name and profile picture several times.

Why does this document exist?

More information (such as the Nijisanji contract) has come out along with another individual in the know confessing to me that Luca Kaneshiro has allegedly harassed others inside of Nijisanji. I believe it is my responsibility to bring to light his problematic behavior and patterns of abuse as both Java and Luca for those who may be in a precarious situation which do not allow them to speak or act. This is also to touch upon the internal issues of AnyColor's management of their talents. Any documents are simply meant to prove the credibility of my story and that I was deeply involved with Luca.

While some may be asking why I didn't do this sooner, I'll be completely honest: no one cared. I am, to this day, harassed and sent death threats by Luca's fan base. They actively suppress, lie, and spread vicious rumors to try and discredit me. I would get anonymous death threats in my Marshmallow and from sock puppet Twitter accounts. So I gave up for a long time.

Who am I?

I have been streaming on Twitch since 2014 and have been a Twitch Partner since July 2015. I worked as a Community Manager at a major gaming publisher for a couple of years before I got laid off and started working at one of the top global Hollywood agencies as a social media consultant for outside organizations and our own influencers (streamers/YouTubers). This is all to say I know a bit about streaming, social media, marketing, and PR at the very least and how it should look from the inside. When Java and I met, I was known as Raziel Warmonic up until he became Luca Kaneshiro and I made a new alias, "Mizuchi", to help distance myself from our extensive past together under the advice of another Nijisanji liver. After losing contact with Luca, I decided it would be the healthiest decision if I abandoned the Mizuchi pseudonym and went back to my original alias of Raziel Warmonic. Java and I, while extremely close, never dated and we never met up IRL. He was 18 and I was 24 when we first came in contact with each other.

History Pre-Nijisanji

Java and I met in VRChat sometime early December 2018. We were a part of an 18+ VRChat lobby ran by a streamer for content by the name of Roflgator, also known as Rob. These lobbies were roleplay (RP) oriented and took place in a bar world that Roflgator commissioned and owned. We started interacting with each other when Java asked Roflgator if he would set up his character on a date with mine. This was a very popular form of RP at the time in Roflgator's lobbies so it was nothing out of the ordinary. The type of improved RP in this particular lobby thrived on silly/awkward situations mainly, so I agreed and we went on an RP date. I even told Java after the RP, out of character, to make things abundantly clear and set boundaries that I was not interested in dating, and that this was just strictly an RP thing in which he agreed and said he wasn't looking to date either. We became friends and added each other on Discord early January 2019 where for the majority of the conversations would discuss RP scenarios for our characters, talk about VRChat in general, I would help him with his VRChat avatars, and get feedback from him on mine.

We gradually became close friends. Java would start inviting me to private worlds to open up about his home situation and his mental and physical abuse from his family. He would tell me that he never felt comfortable talking about this stuff with anyone before. So in return, I would share stories about my abuse growing up as well and how I dealt with those tough situations. Java knew I had a long term boyfriend at the time and I played VR in my older brother's family room, so I did not have a private space. I never did anything sexual or suggestive in or outside of VR at this time.

On January 17, 2019 Java would once again invite me to a private world. We were both in full body tracking in VRChat. We discussed RP and made small talk before Java would go silent. At first I thought maybe his mom came into his room, as she often did, and he muted himself to talk to her. I kept talking and I could see him moving slightly but he kept silent. I asked him if everything was okay and he said it was. I then asked him what he was doing. It was there, without asking me if it was okay, out of the blue with no prior consent and with boundaries already made clear that I did not want to date, he told me he was "touching himself" to my voice.

I froze up. I honestly did not know how to respond at the moment so I just kept talking. Luckily it did not last long because suddenly I would see his avatar's head drop to the floor and he would go offline. I would find out shortly after in Discord DMs that his mom had walked in on him. I didn't know how to respond, given I was told by him his mom would still physically abuse and yell at him, so my brain switched to make sure he was okay as opposed to addressing what he just did with me as you can see in the DMs below.

At some point I would start streaming again. We both continued to appear in Roflgator's stream/lobby and I would stream on the side, in which Java would heavily be involved of his own volition. He would go as far as to wake up early in the morning (4am Australian time) so he could be on my stream - I did not ask him to be on my stream, he wanted to of his own accord. Jokes and teasing started to form around him "orbiting" and being "lost" without me on Roflgator's and my own stream. We even had an emote on my channel dedicated to him named "razOrbiter" that was just his VRChat avatar's face. I do greatly appreciate him helping me and appearing on my stream to this day however.

Unfortunately this was just the start of the obsessive and possessive behavior by him. Off stream we would hang out in VRChat as well and visit public worlds with our friend groups to meet and talk with new people. His HTC Vive VR headset would end up breaking and he would be without it for a couple months. During this time I would learn to lap dance in VRChat and he would become upset when I would dance for other people or even talk to other guys if he didn't like how they approached or jokingly flirted with me. We got into a lot of arguments over this. I would tell him multiple times to knock it off and it wasn't appropriate.

After establishing more boundaries and being understood by both of us we were able to continue our friendship, but this isn't to say smoothly. I still felt obligated to talk and be with him because of the way he would get upset or at least I felt like I had to keep my conversations with others short. I felt like I couldn't even go visit another friend in VRChat real quick to say hi without potentially upsetting him. We were always with other friends when I did this so I wasn't leaving him alone, not that it should have mattered.

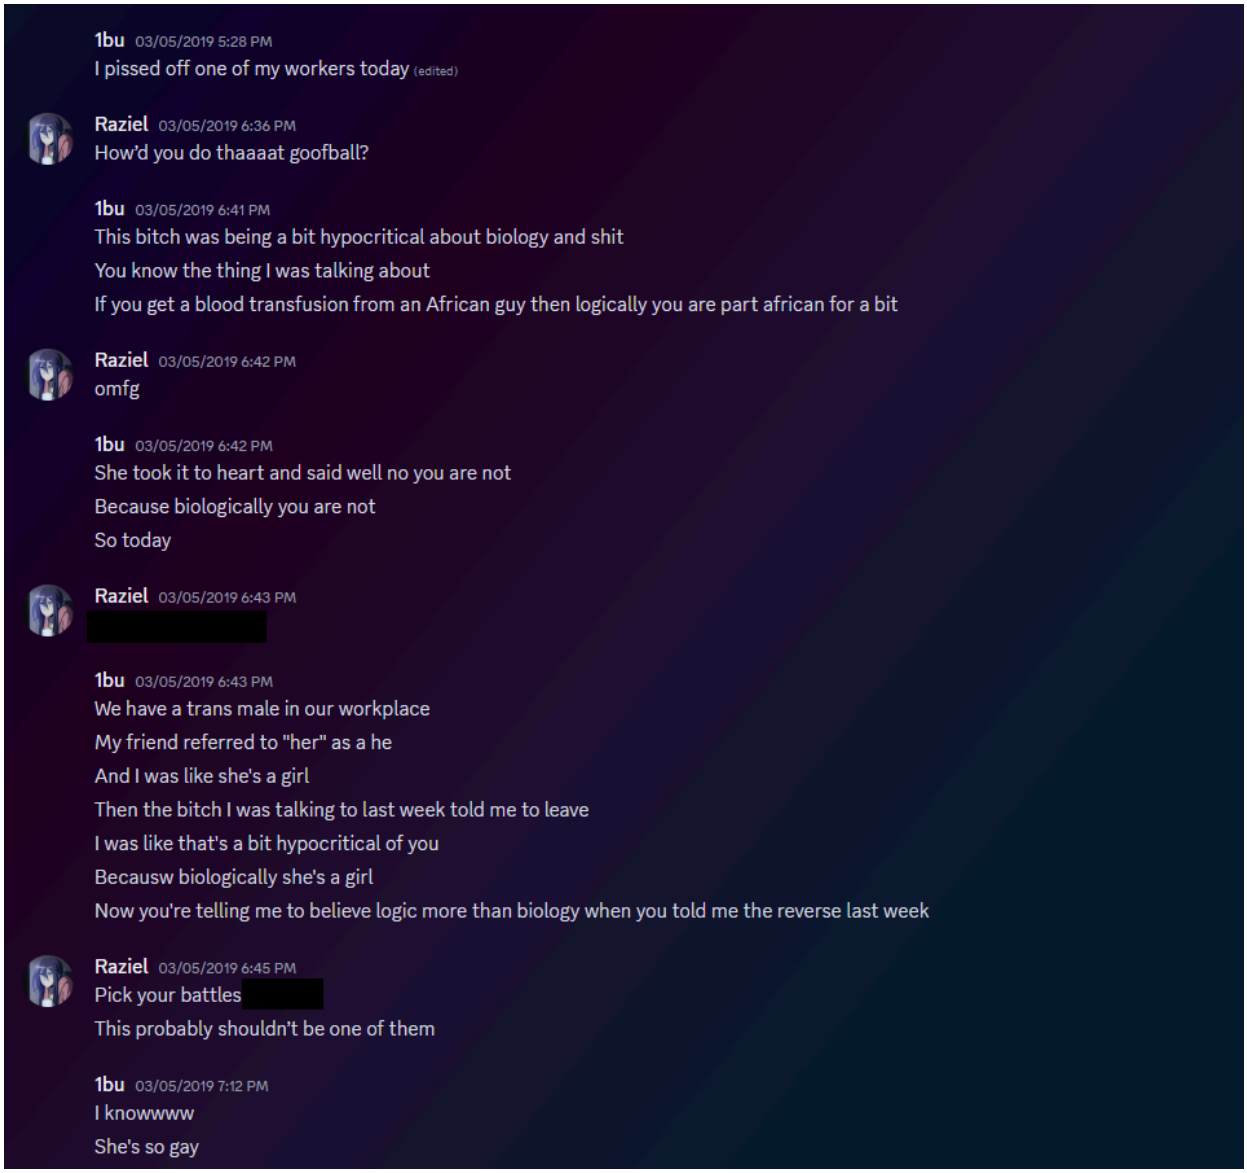
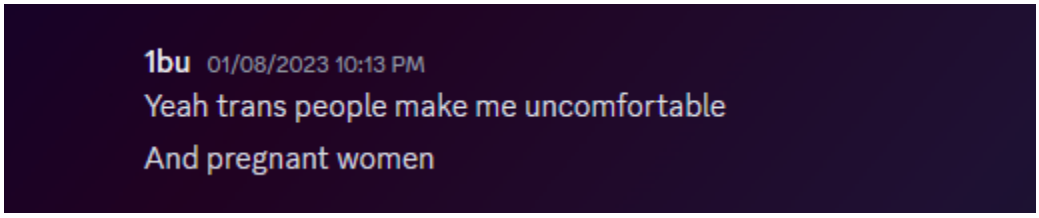
Java struggles with respecting the LGBTQIA+ community. He would admit to harassing a transmale coworker by misgendering them on purpose.



He also has a history of being scared of males who identify as gay. He would get freaked out if a male hit on him, or if someone joked about him being gay in any way.

This is a mindset he had not grown out of since we last spoke. In the screenshot below, you can see as late as January 2023 he expressed that transgender individuals make him uncomfortable, despite the role Java often played for Roflgator where he would hit on males while pretending to be a woman.



Java and I would make friends with someone else by the name of TrouserGravey and we all became close friends. Trouser and I were older than Java so we would often advise him on his hard situations online and IRL. We even split the cost of gifts to send to him for things like his birthday and Christmas. Java would then start to lie about his activities to both of us or blow us off when we planned to do something together as a group like play Monster Hunter. TrouserGravey also would be there to see Java get upset over the above aforementioned events. TrouserGravey and I would heavily encourage Java to go out with his friends IRL and even meet with girls he still talked to after High School and were still interested in him.

Java was not a good liar. He would come up with fake excuses to blow us off then get on VRChat to be on Roflgator's stream which are two very easy things to look up - there is no offline mode in VRChat, and he was on our friend's stream. We would fight about him lying to me about this. Our arguments became more frequent. I would have to sit there and console him for hours as he would get upset over him lying but also over menial things like me not caring about the same anime as him. Our friendship still persisted however.

Java would start to stream on his Twitch channel under the name of "Javaaaa". He decided to do this after gaining popularity by pretending to be a girl in VRChat to trick popular streamers, such as Sodapoppin, by seducing them and then revealing he was a guy on Roflgator's stream. I would more or less stop streaming to help Java focus on his stream. This is when I would start to manage his channel and community. My work included keeping him company on stream per request, suggesting games for him to play based on popularity, managing sponsorships, cultivating and managing his community, running and helping his moderation team, coming up with Subathon goals and executing the goals that didn't directly involve him, and streaming for him at least once a week so his channel would keep a consistent schedule. Java would lie about his revenue to me (making less than he was telling me during the time), about going to school (he wasn't even enrolled), among various other things.

He would end up making two sock puppet Twitter accounts to harass others during the Nijisanji audition process. One named "lollyspringa" the other "poggerswoggers".

@Cece_VR Male VTubers atm is just not entertaining, they are more focused on complaining and being sad about being a male VTuber. 98% don't have the personality for it, we've yet to see a dominant individual male VTuber and I can only name a couple that will take the spot soon

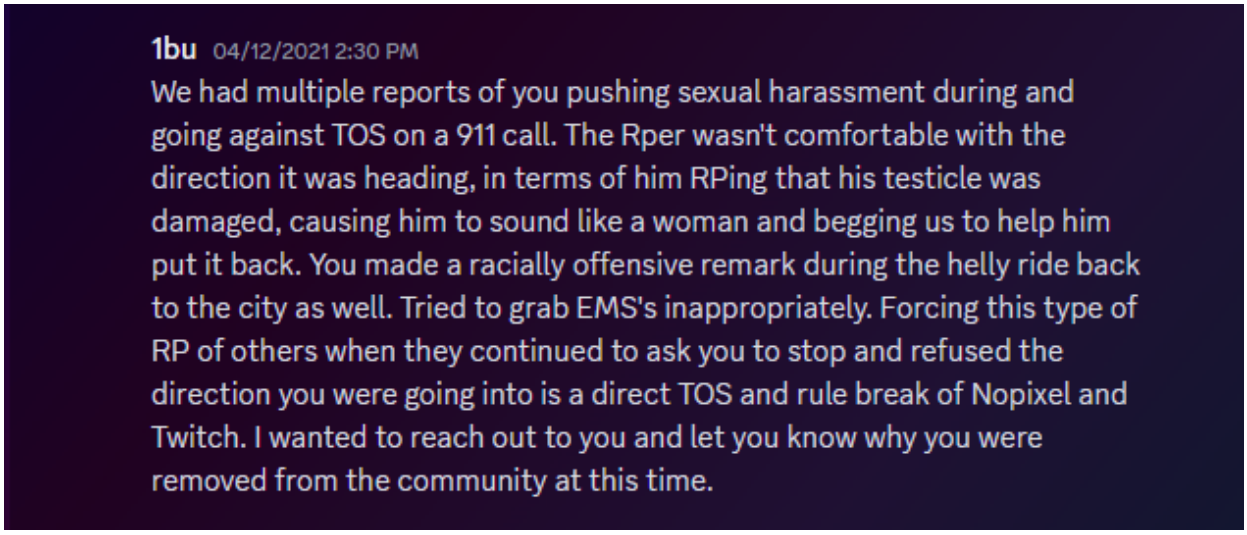
I would attempt to get into these accounts by using the same passwords he had given me before for other things. It worked. So I verified these accounts were his by almost gaining access to them in which Twitter said an email was sent to an email I recognized as his for 2FA.

He wasn't even aware he was in Nijisanji at this point as it was still too early in the process. When I confirmed the accounts were his I confronted him about it. At first he would deny it. He would then admit to it when I showed him the proof of me getting into the accounts. I felt obligated to cover this up to the people who were accusing him. I would also prevent him from talking about other stuff that would get him into trouble, such as the ban he would incur while in the popular GTAV RP server, NoPixel, for sexual harassment.



This was Java copy and pasting the reason why he got banned from the NoPixel admins.

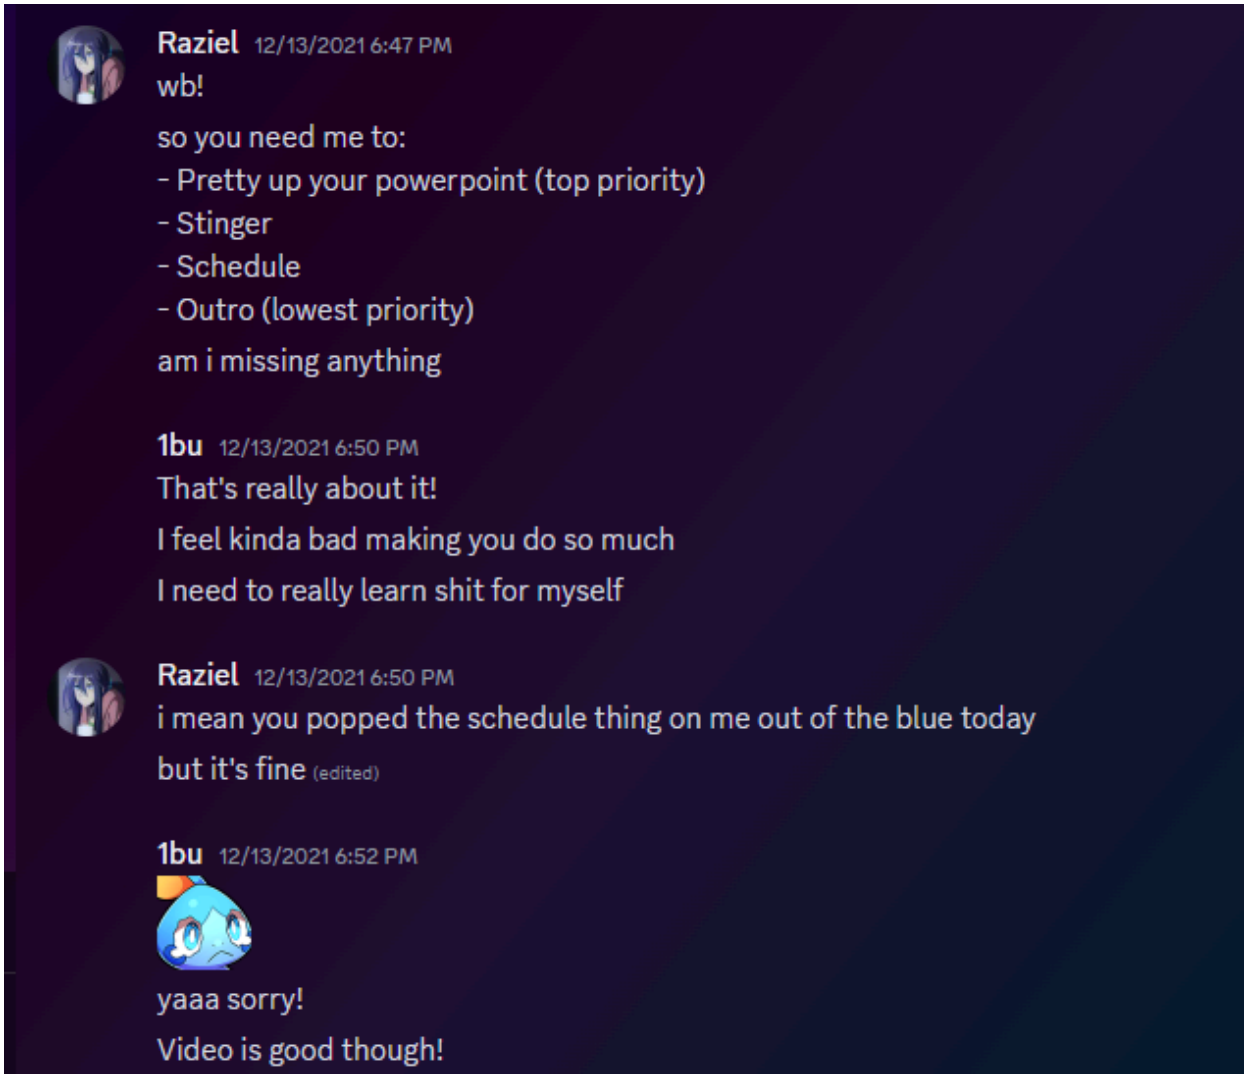
This would continue until he was offered to be a part of Nijisanji and graduated his channel.

History as Luca

I remember when Java got an email asking for an interview from AnyColor as we were hanging out in VRChat together when he randomly started to shout and exclaim that he got the email. We were both beyond excited. He asked me what he should wear, sent me a pic of his outfit before the video interview to make sure he looked okay, and told me about what they said and asked him after the interview. He would be accepted into Nijisanji's roster to debut in the first English male wave under Luxiem.

Our relationship was still very good at this point. We would spitball names for his character where we only had the image below to go off of. He came up with the little lion plush mascot and had someone whom we both commissioned from, come up with a lot of ideas before we settled on the current design. He couldn't come up with a name for it so I ended up naming it "Augustus". We would talk about his aspirations like how he didn't want to be "like other male vtubers", he wanted to go with a non-boyfriend experience, he didn't want to pander or "sell out", he wanted a non-lewd "seiso" personality and really play into the mafia-esque character.

Most of the things he was commissioning for his debut went without a hitch, but he would express frustrations on certain things such as commissioning an overlay and not liking it, that the person who was supposed to create his intro/starting screen was ghosting him, that he was bad at powerpoints, and needed someone to make his debut slides look pretty. I stepped up and offered to do these things for him. He was my friend, and he was frustrated, and I wanted to help him the best I could, especially since his debut was very close at this point.



Shortly after Luxiem debuting, Luca would completely cut off contact with his friends he made before Nijisanji. He never voiced any issues with these friends before and would often hang out with them. To my understanding, when he talked later about friends treating him poorly, he was strictly referring to Roflgator. Luca and I would start to grow apart. He would accuse me of expecting too much of him (all I would ask is if he wanted to play a game together, get in VRChat, or watch something), comparing me to his abusive mother, and would victimize himself if I did ask. He kept reassuring me that I could go to him for anything, vent anytime, and would even love bomb me often in the morning after he woke up. When I did ask to hang out or vent he would get upset, then would make me feel guilty and minimize my feelings because he could “never do enough” and he could “never live up to my expectations”. This got worse and worse as time went on.

The Ringfit Adventure “Incident”

This happened early on. Luca had two moderators at the time, including me. Luca streamed Ringfit for the first time while I couldn’t attend his stream. I rewatched parts of it and saw his chat, and knowing my best friend for years at this point, I asked him after if he was comfortable with what was being said in chat. He told me he wasn’t, and he didn’t like being sexualized and just wanted to work out on stream while being entertaining. I took this as I should moderate this behavior in the chat room and steer people away from posting sexual comments. Luca would stream Ringfit again where I would be more active in moderating.

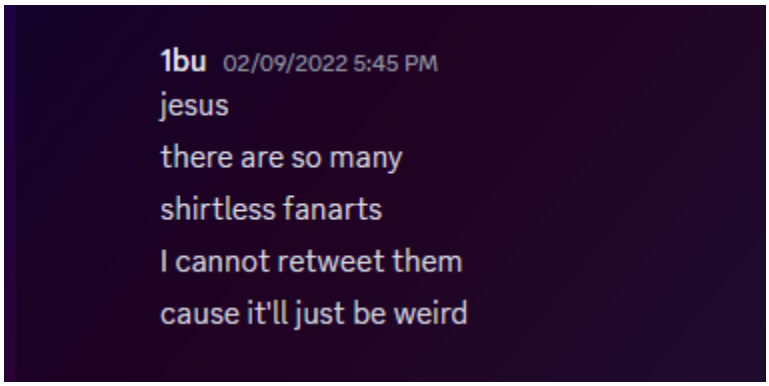
Myself and the other mod had no channel rules at this time so we had to do things at our own discretion. Going back to moderating for Java, his chat knew me well and I would joke around with them to try and softly steer conversations in other directions as opposed to a more harsher moderation approach unless I absolutely had to. So I did the same thing in Luca’s second Ringfit stream. This was taken in a wrong way. I didn’t ban or timeout people for using the hot sweating emoji face, but I did encourage the use of another one when a user suggested it. I only timed people out for obvious sexual posts.

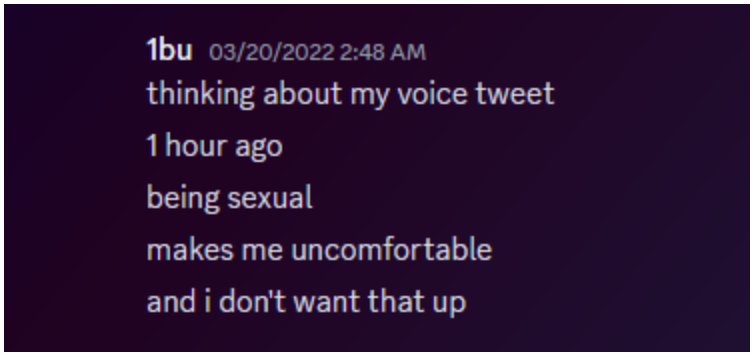
I called out one user for accusing Luca of moaning on purpose, and told them that he was breathing heavily because he was working out very hard. The stream went on without any issues, until the very end where someone would Super Chat Luca asking why his moderators were banning people (we weren’t), and Luca would say that he would talk with us (his moderators). I ended up messaging him in a panic letting him know that we did not ban anyone, only timed out

I talked to him after the stream. He would craft a tweet and ask if it was OK to post that he trusts his moderators. I told him it should be okay and hopefully clear the air about this. I would sit on Twitter and apologize personally to people about what happened during the stream and explain the timeouts. Some took this as an attack, which led to both Luca and I being attacked, harassed, doxed by having our pictures plastered across various social media sites, and more. I personally received a multitude of death threats. This put a giant strain on our friendship. I even asked to speak to his manager at Nijisanji to better formulate a plan on how to best handle this, but both Luca and his manager ignored me. Luca just told me to be a silent mod after that.

Going back to when Luxiem debuted, Luca would complain and start comparing his numbers to his wave mates. He had always been obsessed with comparing himself to others and is always worried about his viewer count and how many people are talking in chat.

This number fixation is what drove him away from what he originally wanted to portray. He would be upset if I took notice of his new on stream personality and overall content change. Luca would start to pander more, he would “fujo bait” with the other boys, and started a shift towards a more boyfriend experience type content. He would get frustrated and sad that I didn’t watch his streams anymore, which was for numerous reasons. One was the content shift, the other was his time slot which was quite late for me. I would occasionally watch his streams, but I couldn’t even talk about them because it was like walking on eggshells. I couldn’t joke about the things he did or say as he would get upset at me. Yet somehow all we would talk about was Nijisanji and his streams.





He would get extremely frustrated/uncomfortable about people sexualizing him early on, especially if they compared him to Vox Akuma. He would deny he was being sexual. This message is in reference to this voice tweet.

He believed he deserved as much attention as his other wave mates were getting, mainly Vox. He would constantly be on sites like 4Chan and blame it on Selen showing him. He would ego search Twitter and tell me about it. He would show me fanart and clips people were making of him nonstop and what they were saying about him.

He would message fans (and lie about it to me) directly until this one artist came out about it and I told him he was stupid for having casual conversations with his fans like that.

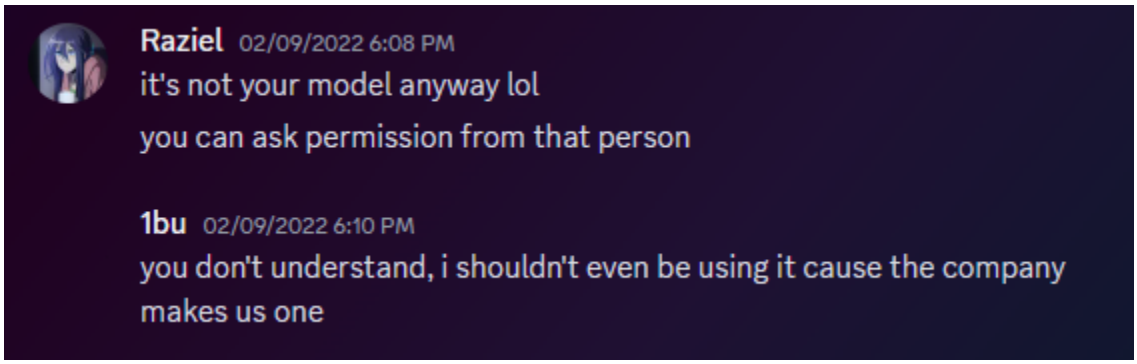
Context: I think he's gonna talk about it tomorrow if he feels the need to do it.

He would use, against the modeler's rules, a password protected MMD model of Luca in VRChat if we ever did hang out in VRChat. He would go undercover in the Nijisanji Express train world Selen made and eventually the Luxiem VRChat world to interact with fans and even reveal he was Luca in disguise.



This is Luca lamenting that the Luca Kaneshiro MMD model he downloaded was password protected and admitting he shouldn't be using it.

During one of his streams, Luca would play copyrighted music from Tokoyami Towa of Hololive. He found a random YouTube playlist of "copyright free" music and did not vet it and thought it would be okay to play the music on stream. He has a habit of asking for forgiveness later instead of asking for permission.

Luca would antagonize 4Chan after a hand cam stream where he carved a Jack-'o-Lantern in October 2022. The tweet would have random capitalized letters that would read "RENT L FREE". I would express to Luca about how this wasn't safe.

Link to tweet.

Luca's Disagreements With Other Livers

One of the earliest instances of this is when Luca was having a spat with Ike. Ike would offer to mix one of Luca's covers and would go silent on updates. This would lead Luca to pester him for updates, and upon receiving none, he would commission someone else. After he told Ike this, Ike would start to talk to him again and would allegedly accuse Luca of wasting his time, and would get upset about it.

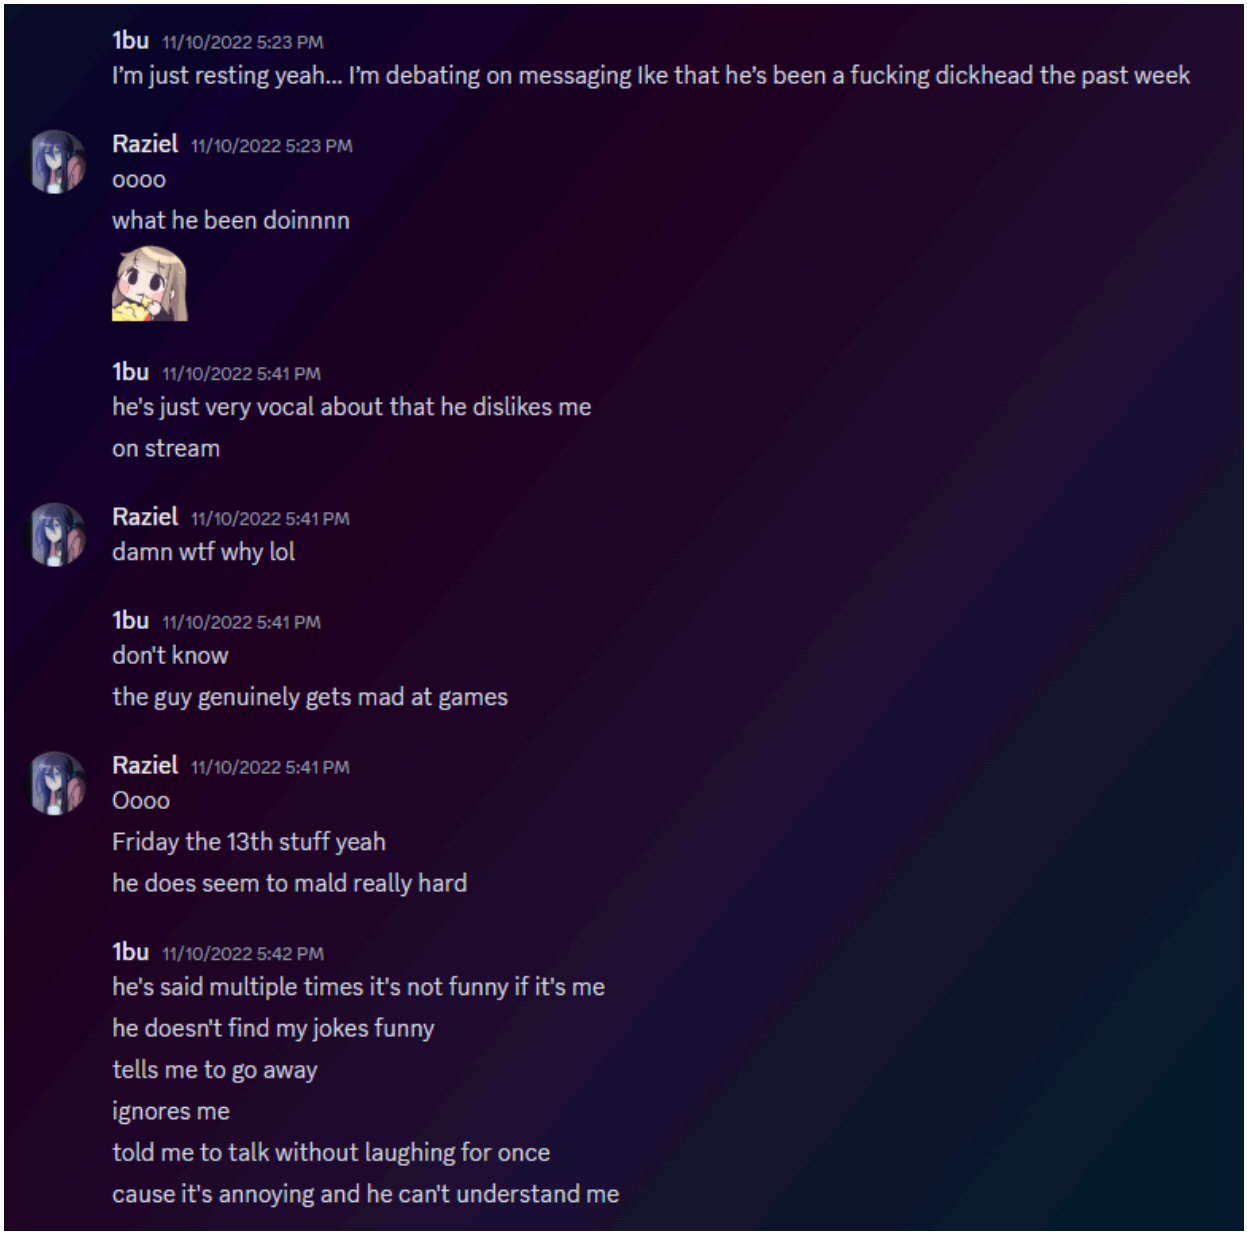
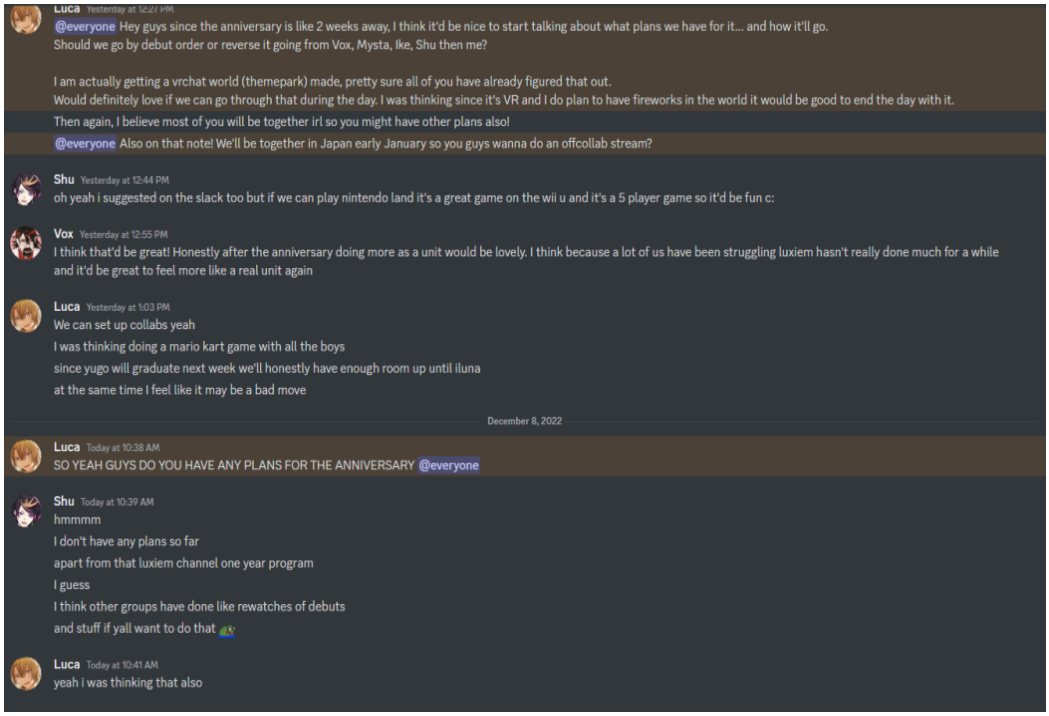
Ike would also be vocal on streams, such as during the Friday the 13th and AmongUs VR collab, about how Luca annoyed him, which in turn caused Luca to be frustrated at him.



For Luxiem's first anniversary, Luca would attempt to gather Luxiem for ideas on what to do for their first anniversary. Shu would be the only other member to reply to him. Luca expressed frustration with how the other livers acted towards him because of this.

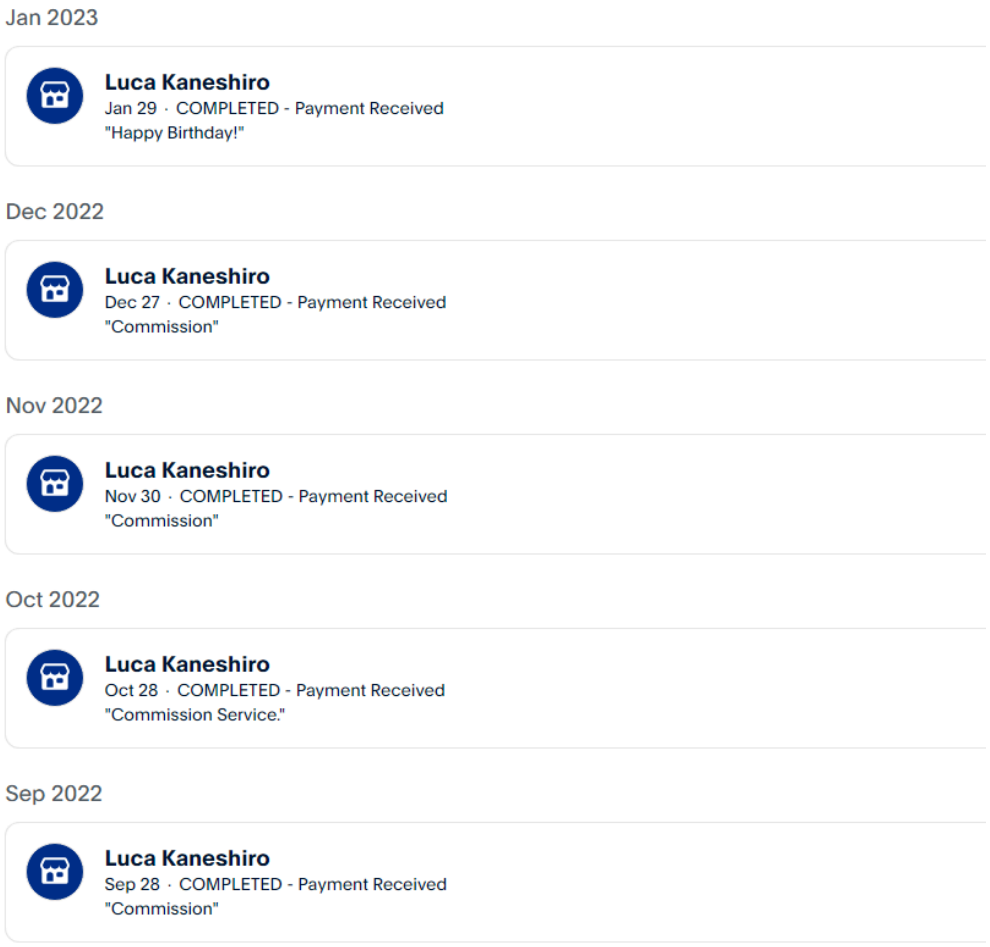


ARLive would be canceled, and everyone in Luxiem would go on strike except for Luca. Luca would express disdain for this and how his wave mates handled the situation, including sleighting management on Twitter. Vox would try to organize meetings to bring grievances to management, such as their merch cut. He would call his wave mates “childish” to me and expressed how he and Elira would discuss the other livers behaviors during this time.

He would ignore my requests of not talking about Nijisanji 24/7, and would instead get me involved with his work doing things like building Deezney Land in Minecraft so we could “spend time together”.

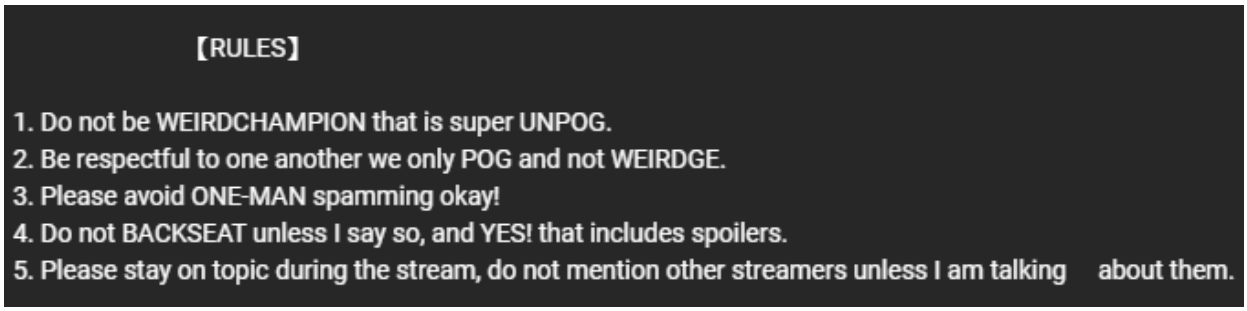
My Work For Luca

I was paid in cash or gifts for everything I did for Luca, except for mod work. I tried to make a simple contract with Luca later on, as he wanted to pay me a monthly salary to more or less be his assistant and work on various projects for him, in which he denied the contract and wouldn’t allow me to send invoices for the work. I would have to remind him monthly to pay me the amount he said he would, and he would send me the money via PayPal and label it as “commissions” or as my birthday:



Mod Work

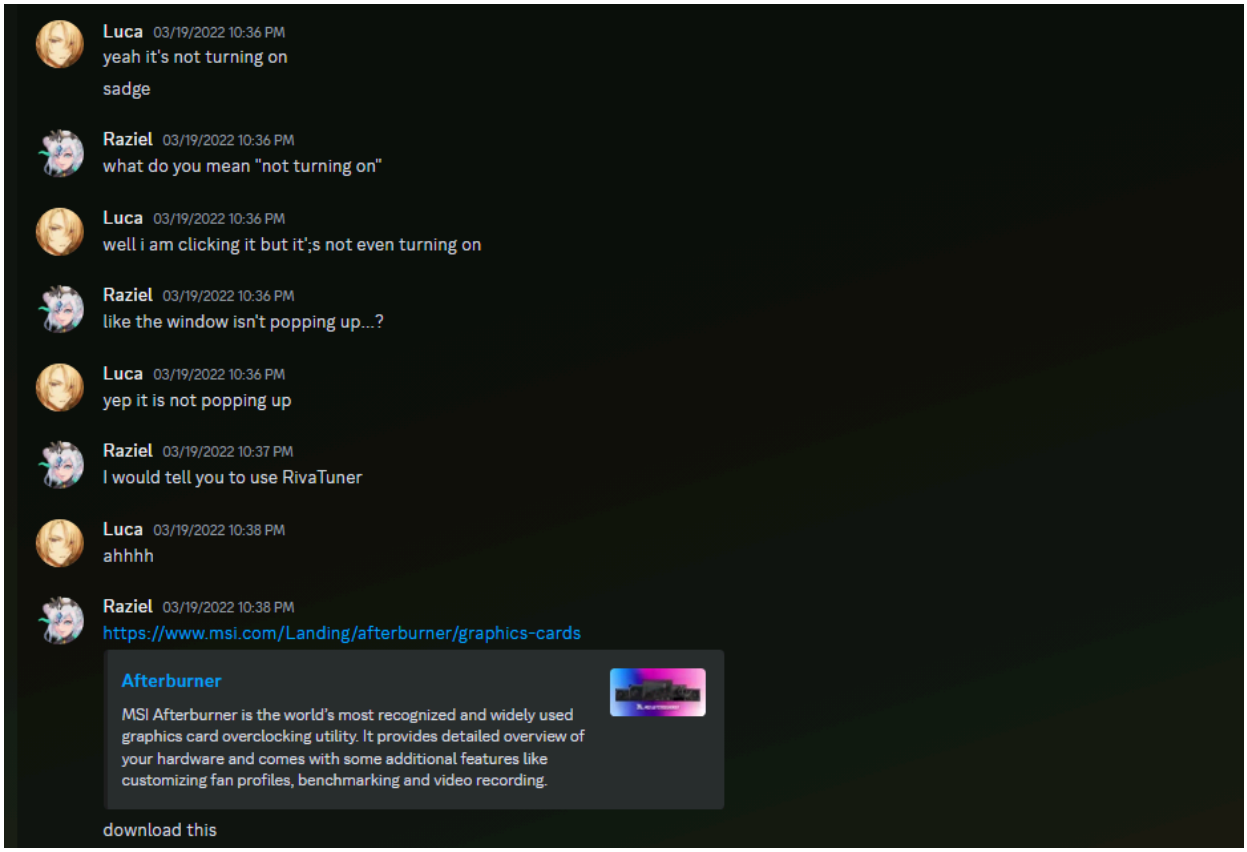
Myself and a fan from Luca's past life were his two mods. We had a private Discord set up for our mod activities. There has been no activity in it since I was modding for him. The other moderator and I had zero direction for his channel and were completely left to judge things for ourselves. Something would come up like his chatters calling him daddy and would have to ask after the fact if he was OK or not with it and he often didn't give us a straight answer, or he would say he was uncomfortable with something then go on to do it anyways. After the Ringfit incident, we both told him he couldn't avoid making rules any longer. We came up with pretty standard vtuber chatroom rules for him, which he disliked, but decided to implement and added unclear wording to by rewriting all of them to include Twitch slang such as "pog" as you can see here:



After the Ringfit incident we would also have to start explaining every single timeout and ban to Luca in the Discord by screenshotting what earned them the timeout/ban with an explanation per his request.

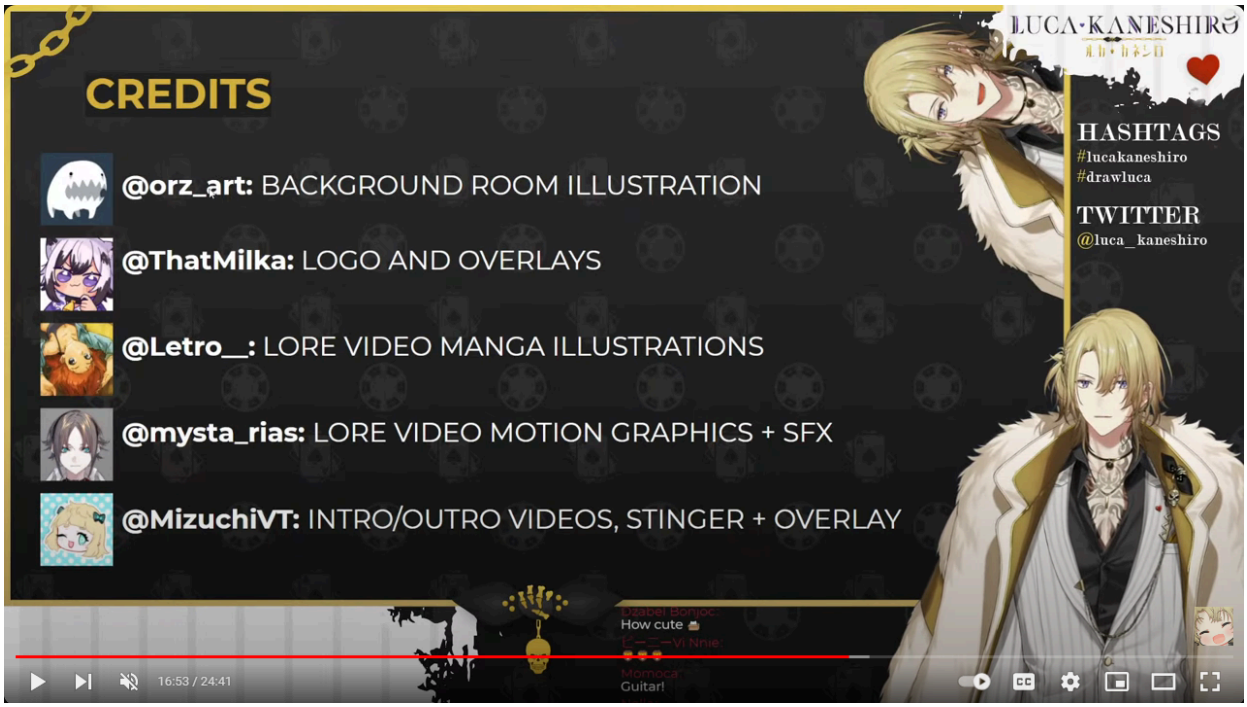
Technical Support

I would provide constant technical support for Luca. The example below shows me trying to help Luca stream a Chilla's Art game, which had uncapped FPS and was lagging his stream. He would often ignore my help. When he has technical issues on stream, he often gets angry, frustrated, and shuts down. Luca never tests, downloads, or troubleshoots games or equipment until a couple minutes before his stream, leading to issues.



Credited Work

I was credited for doing his intro video and some initial overlays when he debuted (as MizuchiVT):



I was also credited for Project Management for the Luxiem VRChat theme park. I also had to gather a lot of the screenshots and information for his “Behind the scenes” stream he did after the anniversary.

During the Luxiem VRChat theme park project, I was not allowed to speak to the other commissioned artists on the project until late into the process which led to it being unfinished.

When I did ask Luca to do or say something, it would take him a long while to respond or I would have to ask multiple times. I was also not allowed to speak with the rest of Luxiem to get a better understanding of what they would like to represent themselves with in each of their areas. I would have to scour through wikis, streams, clips, fanart, Twitters, etc to gather information on each Luxiem member.

Uncredited Work

While I did more than what is listed below, these are just the most stand out moments. I was essentially his assistant and with that came a lot of smaller projects like making graphics for posting on Twitter, editing overlays, stream thumbnails, curating popular game lists, making banners for his various social media sites, getting fanart for him, and more.

1. Formatting his debut presentation [OG] - [link]

2. Minecraft "Deezney Land"

   Not only was this when he would give me his AnyColor internal email address so I could log into his Minecraft account, I would end up making the majority of Luca's Deezney themepark in Minecraft. This included but is not limited to: The entrance, the carousel, the underground water roller coaster, the decorations/pathways, the food stall/seating area, the ferris wheel, the wall around Deezney, part of the underground tunnel to Pomu's park, and sprucing up / redecorating things Luca had made.

   For the maze I planned everything out for him and set him up so he could build it on stream in non-creative mode.
   Here are a couple WIP screenshots I sent him:

While on Luca Kaneshiro's Minecraft account, I was building the Deezney Land theme park when Pomu Rainpuff logged in and saw me. I was on Luca's account while it was late for him and he was asleep. She attempted to contact me but I logged off instead as no one knew it was me on the account and I wasn't supposed to be using his company Minecraft account as he told me he could be terminated if anyone else knew:

3. Minecraft Sports Carnival

   From what I gathered now, this never happened. It was a tournament Luca was planning to run with Nijisanji EN that included popular Minecraft mini games. I ended up making the logo and some decorations in-game for it and getting him a list of mini games he could include. Below are WIP shots of the logo that was done complete with a fireworks show.

4. Stream Overlays

   I edited overlays for his stream, but one that went completely uncredited was the last minute overlay I did for his Pokemon stream seen below:

5. Schedule graphic

   At some point Luca would express, multiple times, that he didn't like his current schedule graphic. I asked what he was looking for and came up with a temporary one for him to use in which he didn't credit me for either while he found someone to commission. Before this I was also responsible for editing and filling out the graphics for his schedules. I even went out of my way to message artists to make sure it was OK to use their art in the graphics at the beginning.

Luca Lorev2 Short Story
Luca finishes streaming, eats, brushes his teeth and hops into bed. He then starts dreaming about his past, 3 years before he became the boss. Wakes up in a different room (confused), someone knocking on his door(mafia member with a mask). Gets informed he's late for a date. Person is waiting ou...
idk how long you want this to be, I'm trying to keep it short and simple without being... too short and simple.
also trying to keep the date androgynous
Raziel 11/02/2022 12:15 PM
@1bu If you want to take a look at it, I'd say it's like... 1/3rd done?? I wasn't going to go into too much detail about the date since it's kind of unnecessary. I spent more setting up the whole scenario then I will focusing on the date. I do recognize that I described an outfit that isn't the one you currently have, and isn't your outfit reveal, my thought process is that the suit you currently where is your mafia suit so a more casual suit would make sense here. If you want me to change it, just lmk. It's no big deal at all. But I will be going into even more details about the actual outfit reveal. I'll have the date lead into the outfit reveal, saying something along the lines of like "cmon you always wear suits, let's find you something a lil different!" (edited)
If you could show new outfit again that would be a great help.
Just also want to make sure this is at least somewhat what you were envisioning for a story before I continue, it will also be proofread more (edited)

7. Sakura Bloom 2023 VP

   He asked me to write the script for this voicepack. Original document [can be found here.]

8. Luca's Birthday 2023 VP + Handwritten Merch

   I was tasked with writing the voice pack for his 2023 Birthday. Original document can be found here.

   I was also tasked with handwriting his message and signature for his 2023 birthday merch. As far as I know, a staff member made the Luca signature with the heart around it and he wanted me to trace it for him so it looked like he did it again but different essentially. He never gave me a message to write so I eventually had to come up with one myself.

Things to do for 1 million subs!!

@Luca Kaneshiro Hi Luca! Since you are very close to 1 millions subs now, please proceed the following ASAP!

- Merchs
- Submit hand written short message (similar to attached image)
  - The attached Photo is from Kanae(NIJISANJI JP), when he reached to 1M subs.
  - It says "It was my dream to reach 1M subscribers!
  - I can achieve this because of your support.Thank you so much to be with me until here! Kanae"

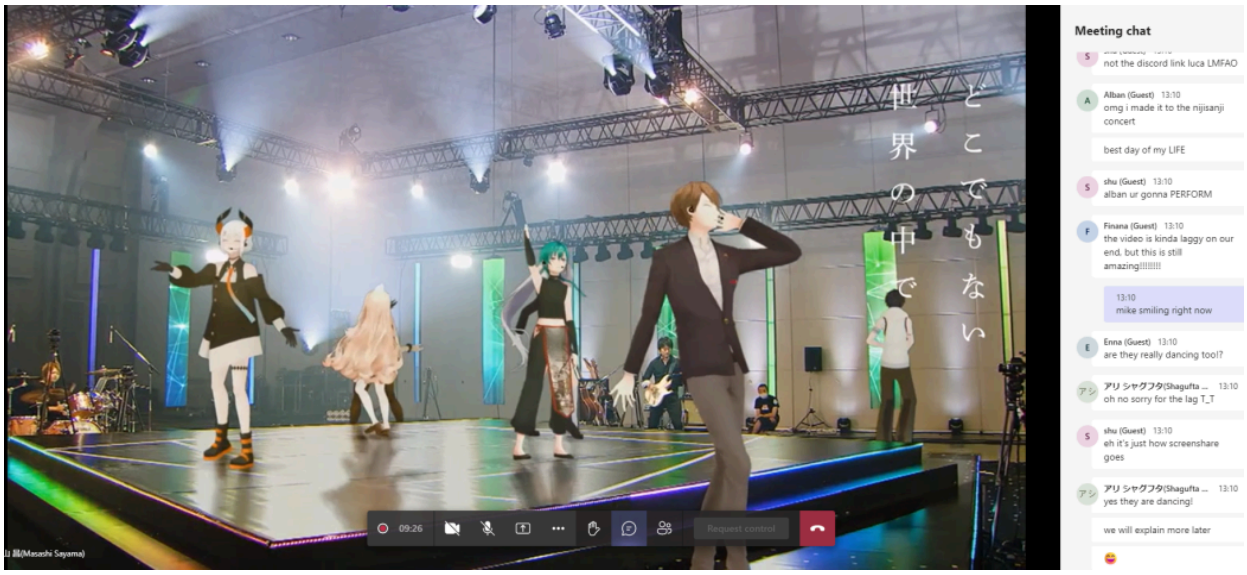
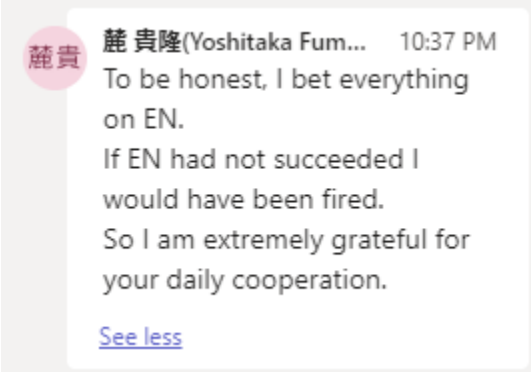
Concerns With AnyColor/Nijisanji Management + Internal Documents That Were Shared With Me

There are multiple times and instances where something would happen and I would ask Luca if they ever received basic public relations (PR) training. He would inform me they did not. AnyColor's management felt non-existent from what Luca had told me. Luca also told me, early on in his time in Nijisanji, that management told him that he was supposed to be the leader of Luxiem.

To my understanding, staff have 3 channels of communication with the Nijisanji livers. This would be Slack, Microsoft Teams, and Discord. While it was rare I would get screenshots of any internal messages, there were a couple times I did. One would be about staff showing EN what 3D recording looked like for concerts with a video call. One would be upper management thanking Luca for his hard work through Slack. And the other, already shown above, was asking for a message from Luca for his 1 million subscriber milestone through Discord.





Nijifes was supposed to happen with Shu, Vox, and Mysta getting a 3D spot in it back in 2022. Luca and Ike were never informed of this and had to find out via another Liver that they would be left out despite everyone else before Luxiem participating in it too. You can find the full conversation in this Imgur album including why Luca and Ike were excluded.

1bu 08/06/2022 8:03 AM
Am okie though

It's just a little petty

Raziel 08/06/2022 8:03 AM
Oooh ya?
What happened love?

1bu 08/06/2022 8:03 AM
Yaaa
Nijifest is happening soon and they're bringing all the girls and mysta Vox and shu
But excluding me and ike
And everyone else after us

Raziel 08/06/2022 8:05 AM
Oh yeah... the Japan one?

1bu 08/06/2022 8:05 AM
Mhm
Yeah

Raziel 08/06/2022 8:05 AM
That's surprising they are excluding you wth

1bu 08/06/2022 8:05 AM
Again 3/5 Luxiem is going

Raziel 08/06/2022 8:05 AM
I'd be sad too 😟

1bu 08/06/2022 8:06 AM
Why can't we go
I just feel like betrayed

Raziel 08/06/2022 8:06 AM
I'll go beat up Managersan for you

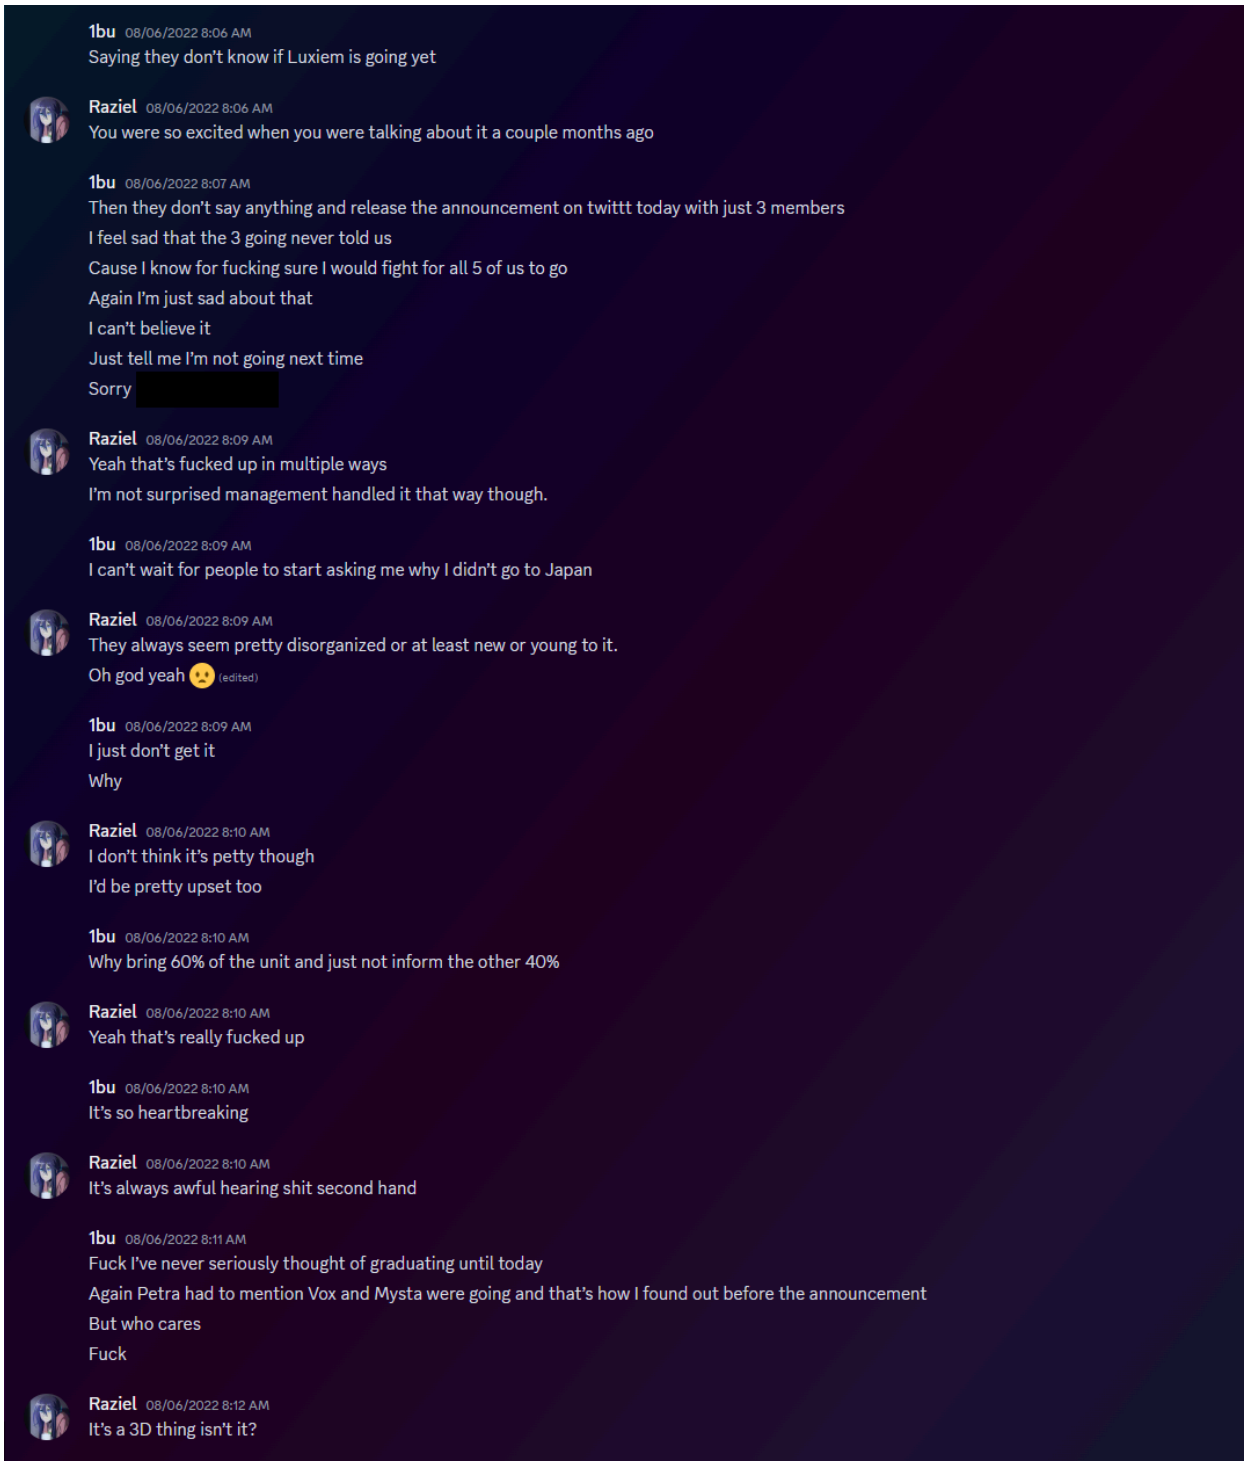
1bu 08/06/2022 8:06 AM
Mhm 🥺

Raziel 08/06/2022 8:06 AM

1bu 08/06/2022 8:06 AM
They even gave me false hope

Raziel 08/06/2022 8:06 AM
I remember
Ya 😟

1bu 08/06/2022 8:06 AM
Saying they don't know if Luxiem is going yet



Luxiem, along with other units, would go to Japan in December 2022 to record songs for ARLive. There was no 3D recorded for this event that I am aware of. The livers were told the event was not canceled at the time, but rather postponed. The only information they were given was the same the public received, which was that it was postponed due to Covid-19 related issues.

In the below screenshots, we can see Luca admitting that while in talks with management, they were not used to the Livers talking back to them which caused one of the members of staff to allegedly start crying.

1bu 03/30/2022 8:23 PM
I'm sorry oh my god
We're literally
Arguing with staff
About our 1 year

Raziel 03/30/2022 8:24 PM
lol

1bu 03/30/2022 8:24 PM
No like
It's bad
We're talking to a Vice President
The producer is a big nft guy

Raziel 03/30/2022 8:25 PM
lmao why

1bu 03/30/2022 8:25 PM
We will literally get cancelled if we proceed with this
Like
Big nft guy

Raziel 03/30/2022 8:25 PM
oh no
like he wants you to do nfts
for your one year

1bu 03/30/2022 8:26 PM
No
Like

Raziel 03/30/2022 8:26 PM
oh

1bu 03/30/2022 8:26 PM
The guy making the song
Is an nft guy

Raziel 03/30/2022 8:26 PM
you're just confusing me

1bu 03/30/2022 8:26 PM
Eyes on the song means eyes on the producer
And people are retarded so they'll start making it seem like we support it
Honestly
I don't think nfts are that bad
But
Poppy playtime did get fucked over

Raziel 03/30/2022 8:27 PM
they are that bad
they really are but i don't get what you are saying

The CEO of AnyColor taking Luxiem out for a private dinner:

1bu 01/16/2023 5:01 PM
The place was too fancy
It's one of those Japanese houses
Where I had to take my shoes off

Raziel 01/16/2023 5:01 PM
wth 😭

1bu 01/16/2023 5:01 PM
I was escorted by people in kimonos
I was like wtf

Raziel 01/16/2023 5:01 PM
omgoooshhh
wth!!

1bu 01/16/2023 5:01 PM
And we had to sit like on our legs
Like in anime
Seiza pose I think

Raziel 01/16/2023 5:02 PM
my knees would die

1bu 01/16/2023 5:02 PM
Then it was just like the upper management
These millionaires and billionaires

Raziel 01/16/2023 5:02 PM
you're a millionaire (edited)

1bu 01/16/2023 5:02 PM
Oh yeah that's right
But I've had dinner with a billionaire
I swear this guy
The ceo
Just rocked up in a hoodie lol

Raziel 01/16/2023 5:02 PM
he's only a billionaire because of you 🤫 yeah that happens a lot
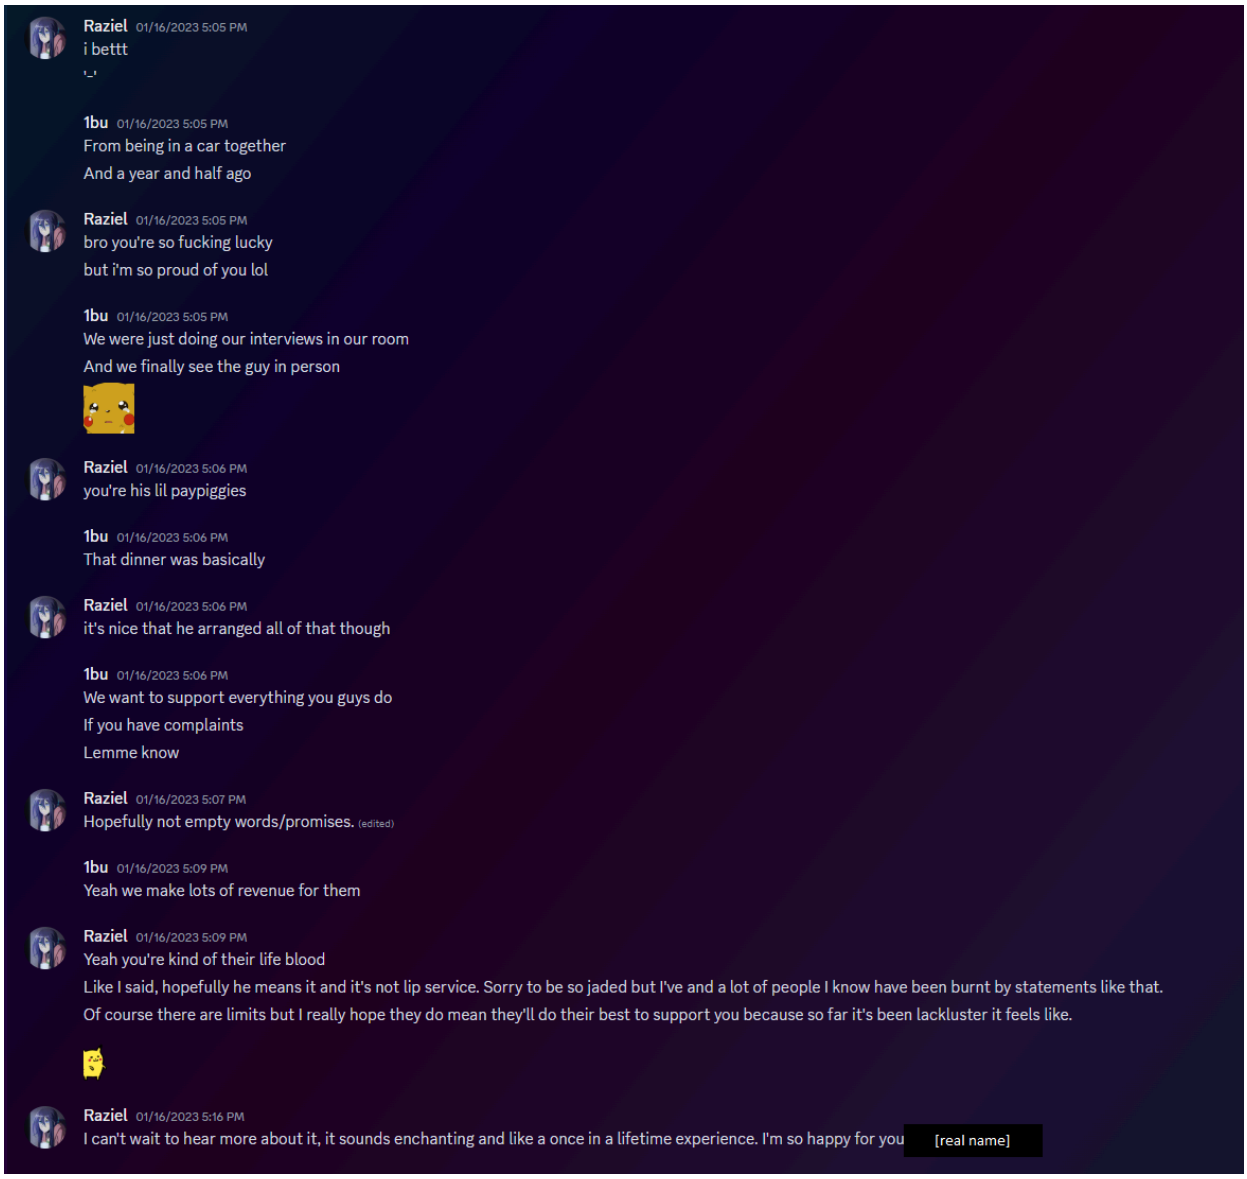
he's still a fucking kid too lol

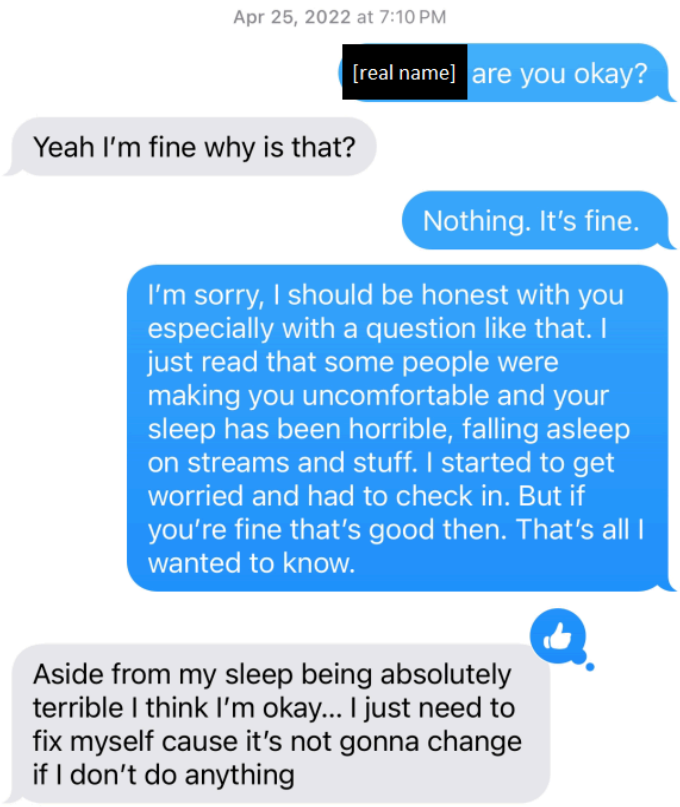
1bu 01/16/2023 5:05 PM
Yeah lol



Ending Our Friendship

Luca would become too much for my mental health, and I told him I needed to take a break away from our friendship. I blocked him on Discord after I said I needed some breathing room. I let him know if there was an emergency it was OK to call/text me.

After a week or so, I found out that allegedly people were making him uncomfortable and he started to fall asleep on other Nijisanji liver's streams, something he never had done before. I texted him if he was okay:



I asked Luca to talk and that's when he informed me he was going to London to meet with other Nijisanji livers. I simply asked that he be safe and just message me that he was when he could. He would end up calling, messaging, and snapchatting me from time to time to talk about the food he ate, shopping they did, and the such. He did admit he did not kiss Vox when they were playing the Pocky game and they just pretended for stream. On his way back from London I informed him of a celebration stream I was having, and would be really happy if he could just say hi (not on the Luca account), in which he said he would be there and he ended up not showing up.

Slowly, our friendship grew more and more toxic after this. He would tell more lies. He would get more short and frustrated with me. He would ask me to do more things. I would have to comfort him more often than not and I felt stuck due to the way he acted when I left him alone. He continued to love bomb me. He would promise me things and never fulfill them. I would get extremely hurt, upset, frustrated, and angry in return. He would continue to victimize himself when he lied or broke said promises. He would once again blame himself for "not being enough". It shattered my heart when I had to tell him he was enough and reassure him while constantly being tossed aside and mentally abused. He would threaten to not be my friend anymore and that he couldn't handle me if I didn't change or leave him alone.

He would still bring up that I didn't watch his streams and that I couldn't be proud of him if I didn't. I reassured him multiple times that I was still proud of him throughout this. All the while doing work for him. He would start to buy me gifts, such as LEGO sets, to replace spending time with me. I would also send him gifts back, such as snacks from the US or expensive clothes. What time we did spend together at this point was him sleeping on call, watching anime, or talking about his next project. He never credited me for projects I did anymore or talk about anything we did like he once did. I was becoming a ghost, and it was happening very fast.

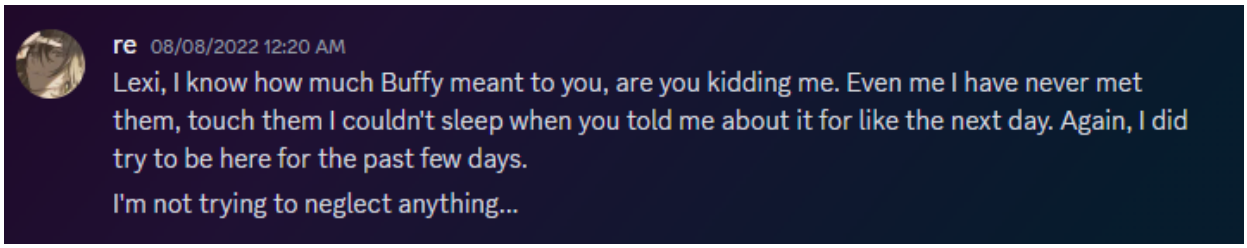
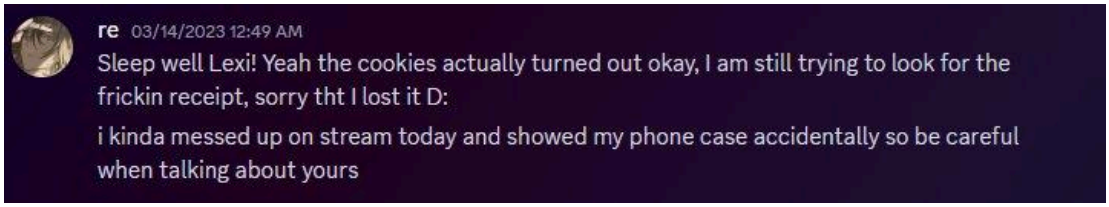
He would go to Japan and tell me about his adventures while there. He would lie about random details while there - not for his safety, just for whatever reason - like if he was drinking, who he was with, where he was, etc, which I would find the truth about later on while listening to other liver's streams. Again, it wasn't about safety, as he would Snapchat me pictures/videos and send me pictures on Discord of him with other livers and where they were in the moment. I do not know if the other livers knew about him sending me IRL pictures of them.

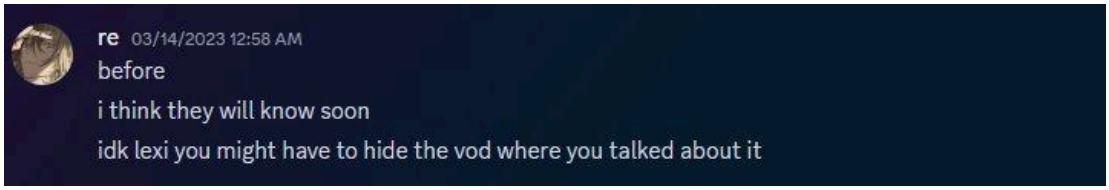
I didn't know if what I was doing would make him upset or not. It was the epitome of toxicity. I was going to therapy and trying different medications to try and feel more "normal" as I felt like I was the reason he was doing this and I needed to change. I felt that I was a problem, and it was all my fault he felt this way. His behavior would isolate me from friends, old and new. This drove me to be codependent on him.

My cat, Buffy, that I had for 3 years would die unexpectedly one night. I messaged him for support in which he ignored me to play Minecraft with his new friends and again played victim saying that he lost sleep over my cat dying.

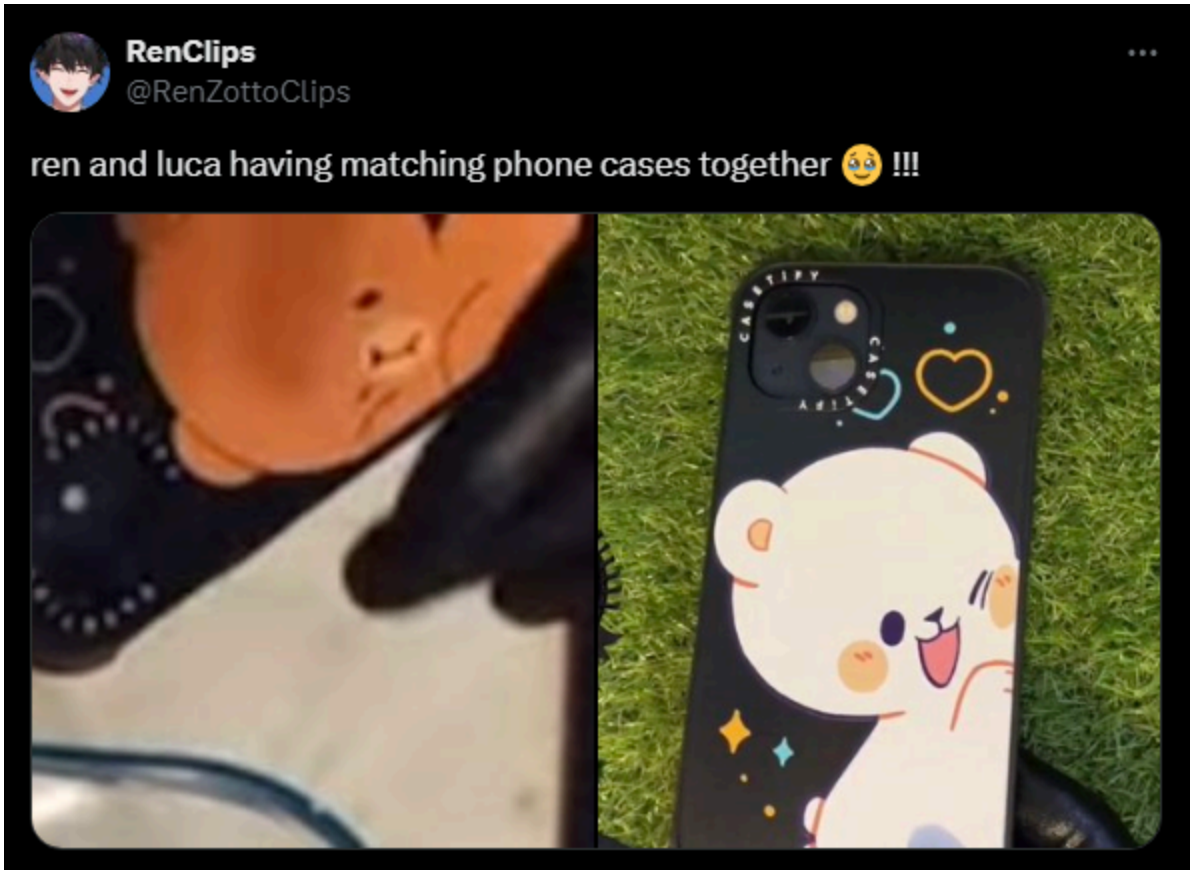


Luca and I got matching phone cases. Luca would then go on to accidentally reveal the matching phone case during a hand cam stream. After he messaged me in a panic saying I needed to never mention the phone case and if I had any VODs mentioning it to delete them.





I found out his cover story was that Ren Zotto had the other matching case. I begged him to just never bring up the phone case again, let it die, don't talk about it, don't tweet, nothing, and let it go as I was in a very fragile state and still scared of his fans and potential harassment. A week or two later, Ren would reveal on a handcam stream that he had the matching case:



It got so bad that while starting a new medication, I felt something was off. I decided to fly out to my dad's house so he could keep an eye on me essentially. This is when I would think about seriously committing suicide. I was at least coherent enough to realize I was forming a plan in my head to kill myself, and that's when I would rush to my dad to tell him who talked me through it and kept an eye on me for a bit while I talked to my psychologist.

I returned home, Luca and I would still be friends and the toxicity and codependency would continue. He'd get upset at his stream content and what he was doing. He would use me as an excuse not to stream, then blame me for why he wasn't streaming. This boiled to the point where he would lie to me about a drinking stream. I asked him if he really wanted to do it, because he would tell me after every single drinking stream he would "never do it again" because he was ashamed of what he said and did on these streams. He said he was going to do it but not drink. Then as it got closer he said he would drink a little. Until the day of, he would say he was going out to get booze so he could get drunk, but he promised he would only stream for 2 hours then we could hang out.

He would get drunk on stream, and then stream for 4+ hours. I asked him after why he would lie to me about drinking and the length of the stream, and he broke down on me. I was scared for his life because of the way he was acting. He completely shut down. He could only scream and kept repeating that he “couldn’t do it anymore” and that he “never wanted to talk to me again”. We talked again after this and he more or less repeated that I was too much for him, that he couldn’t live up to my expectations, and I was too stressful for him to be around.

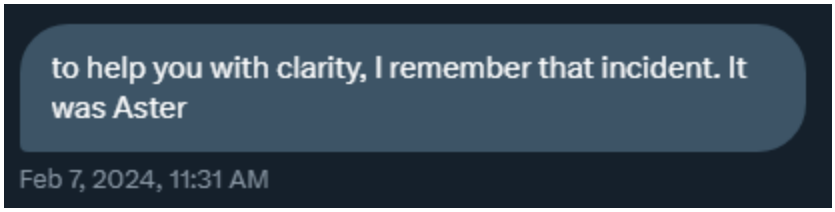
We would exchange diary-esque updates to each other after this for a couple months, but I noticed it was making me increasingly anxious. I was going through multiple cancer removing surgeries and didn’t have anyone to really talk to about this, as he had isolated me. I was still dependent on him. After not updating me on a major life event, that was the straw that broke the camel’s back. I told him this. He showed me pictures of his family’s golden retriever puppy (which turned out to not be his dog, another lie), and apologized. He told me he still wanted to be friends in the future, just not now and he needed to sort things out first. We would stop contacting each other after that.

Since then he has only reached out to me to ask for information for his taxes. He also deleted all of our most recent Discord DMs where he had taken credibility for how he had treated me.

Allegations

Aster Arcadia Harassing Other Coworkers:

I can confirm that Luca said that multiple girls were coming to him about the issue since management wouldn't do anything, and he discussed it with both Elira and I. I personally told him to gather as much evidence as possible and bring it to management since it shouldn't be their (Luca's and Elira's) job to regulate this issue. To my understanding, nothing was done about it.



Another Nijisanji Liver confirmed by DM the Aster allegations after this had been made public.

Luca Harassing Other Coworkers:

I also received a message from the same Nijisanji liver above about Luca harassing others inside of Nijisanji EN. The messaged read:
"[Luca] has done a lot of bad things not just to you so thank you for sharing your experience"

They also sent me a message reading:
"A lot of people waited for you to tell the truth for a while because it had been an issue so I'm happy you finally did."
For their privacy, I will neither share the full screenshot nor their name publicly. These messages are what prompted me to make this document.

Livers Dating Each Other

Luca would vent about numerous livers dating each other. While some livers dated outside of Nijisanji, there were at least two pairs that would end up dating each other that I am aware of. This affected Luca, and the other livers, due to unnecessary drama being created and having to hide relationships publicly. One pair would date for a while, even meeting up IRL several times, and to my understanding ended things amicably. The other pair I knew of would end up dating for a short amount of time due to one side becoming increasingly demanding and vicious towards the other. Luca would ask for my advice on how to handle the situation when they broke up.

Harassment + Allegations by Fans:

There has also been slander thrown at me by organized hate groups. I have been accused of being a pedophile and groomer in regards to Java. I never knew Java before he was 18. This can be verified in a multitude of ways by many people including early clips from Roflgator's channel. The easiest way to get this information is to check the information and dates on our VRChat Legends wikis. Here is my character, Abbey's, and Java's in which he just went by "Java" in RP as well. Let me also say, pedophilia was forbidden in Roflgator's streams. The group was big and close enough that any pedophilia or grooming would have been called out years ago.

Summary

I want to thank anyone who made it this far to hear my story. I want to bring to light Luca's subtly problematic behavior in hopes that my story can potentially help those who are stuck in a situation that doesn't allow them to speak and to let them know they are not alone. In regards to Luca's behavior, I believe his manipulation and abuse follows a fairly straight path of lying, to guilt tripping, to playing the victim.

The lying phase often holds promises he will not keep. When he guilt trips, it may include bursts of anger and rage that leads to him blaming others for why he feels that way. This is what made me become codependent on him. It took me a long time to get over thoughts like "I should have just shut up and listened to him, then we would still be friends" and blamed myself for everything. It took months to realize that he very clearly left me with trauma from the emotional abuse he inflicted on me and I don't want anyone else to get wrapped around his finger like I was.

I hope the small stories I have to share about AnyColor/Nijisanji's management helps paint a better picture of what some of the livers might be going through. Every job is tough, however having the pressure and eyes these younger individuals have on them and zero support behind them must be emotionally tolling as they navigate this difficult landscape.

Java and I shared a lot of fun and unforgettable memories together. We were best friends for a reason, not everything was doom and gloom. We loved playing games like Minecraft and building things for each other, we loved watching things together, we loved RPing and streaming with each other. I wish this was a different timeline where I could highlight all the joy we gave each other instead.

I feel sympathetic towards his fans, coworkers, and friends. I know this is a frustrating and hard thing to read. I have no issues if you enjoy someone as an entertainer. All I ask for is for the same respect that I have given to his fans for the past couple years. Harassing me changes nothing.

Thank you again.
